DETAILED ACTION

This is the First Office Action in response to the above identified patent application filed on November 13, 2003.

Specification

1 Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

2 The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because the implied phrase "The invention relates" and "this invention can" should be removed. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3 The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Art Unit: 3682

4 Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

a. In claim 1, the method limitation “the ring structure is turned inwardly” is not fully understood. If the invention is in how the bearing component is made, examiner suggests that applicant pursue claims drawn to the method of making the bearing component in a corresponding application.

An apparatus claim must define over the prior art in terms of its structure and not the method from which the apparatus is made.

b. In claim 1, and elsewhere, it is unclear as to whether applicant is defining the intermediate product of the cage illustrated in Fig 1 or is defining the final product of the cage structure after the partitions are joined as illustrated in Figure 3. If applicant intends to claim the intermediate product, it is suggested the limitation “the ring structure is turned inwardly” be changed, for example, to –a section of the ring structure being connectable to an opposite side portion of the ring structure--.

c. Claim 3, the limitation “the ring structure is formed with a curvature after it is turned in” is not understood because “after it is turned in” it is not considered a ring structure.

d. In claim 3, the limitation “is not minor than” is not understood.

e. In claims 5-8, the limitation “bayonet fixing” is unclear and it is suggested the limitation be changed to –a bayonet joint--.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Note the cage of Forknall et al. ('113) and Fernlund ('961).
